

Where There is An Ending (Making Peace)

This is it, it has to be done!
It cannot be postponed any longer!
This Loss is so enormous
It is almost incomprehensible

But Before, I was not ready!
I was so angry and so untouchable
And He and I were so wrong
It was for the best that It did not happen

Then there was a time for letting go
And going crazy with love
And playing all night long
So, that was not the right time either

When that time was over
It was too late to make It happen
But I wanted and needed It desperately
So I wept and I screamed and
Would not be consoled

Then there was nothing
The nothingness grew into numbness
And that took over Everything
For what seemed like eternity....

Slowly awakening, the Body was voicing
Its bloody cries as its time was running out
For the Body was passed Ready
But I was not; there were still too many Unanswered questions

Pacifying the Body for a time longer,
I searched within for the answers
And for Him who would be The One

When finally the answers came and with them
The understanding of why the Mind and Soul
Could not allow the Body
To create the most Wonderful of Gifts,
Came a deep and profound sadness

Because I was now ready and He was by my side
And finally, the Need was within me
To fulfill what I was born to be - a Mother
But the Body had ran out of time

It held on as long as it could and Fought for its Given Right
But its struggle had been fruitless and
The damaged had to be extracted from the Whole.....

Empty now, the Body sleeps
Exhausted from its fight and the pain
It needs time to heal

As the Body rests
It is comforted knowing
That it will be Nurtured and Supported

Until it forgives itself....
