

One by one they stack upon me,
Body upon body pain upon pain until I am drowning in a sea of broken dreams and the stench of dysfunction fills my nostrils

I try to run, but like a crab in a barrel they pull me deeper Deeper and deeper until I am one of them

Until I am a crab pulling people into the sewage of hate and depression

Until I am choked by my own tears and regret

With on last breath I scream for them to let me go, but I just sink deeper and deeper until I hit the bottom

My limbs become numb
My heart beats slower
My vision blurs
My lungs fill with blood
I am no more....good-bye
