

Steinway

As if your skill could set you free:
You want to immerse yourself in notes, the sorrow of others turned to palaces, glades, shadow and light and the scent of lilac drifting through an open window, the colors staining, backlit by sun.
To play through the thick rope of grief. A way back.