

grief does not point squarely enough resound enough to be an accurate description of how heartbreaking it is to realize you'll never cut a country precious lands do not bleed hemorrhage

their collapse is not a cutting of teeth or flesh
or heartbreak

even when you cut a country poor people die
all over again.