ARTIST STATEMENT

My art gives me happiness and satisfaction mainly in the process of its creation. To me, creating any art is a continuous series of mini puzzles that need solutions. Each type of material used has infinite opportunities and possibilities. As I am working, I am asking myself a series of questions, starting with, how will this work? I continually look for “clues” in my subject. What supports the object or being represented? The weight is centered where? How is it connected? To what? How is it held up? From what? Is it floating? Is it flying or being pressed down? What colors will convey the feeling I want? What textures appeal to my senses? Is a significant range of values represented? If I have answered all the questions, and solved all the puzzles, the result is tremendously satisfying to me and hopefully the viewer.
