

Dick Brown

Just as a man cannot live without breath, I cannot exist without creating art. At the age of six I made sculptures on the beaches in Spain. I drew Indians and cowboys from the books I read. I have always drawn and sculpted faces. I believe I was born to help people see beyond their own faces, not only with my career as a Ph.D Clinical Psychologist, but with my art. I don't know if my art will evoke something inside of the unique soul that is looking upon it. Every shape, every line offers the possibility of comfort and self realization. My voice will carry on through my art. And I know that you will hear it.

if drinking
don't Kill
me her memory will

Brown