Baltimore-based artists Shannon Collis and Liz Donadio combine their backgrounds in photography, digital video and sound installation to create works that explore public spaces, uncovering details of their past, present and possible futures. Their immersive installations conjure meditations on the essence of urban landmarks and environments.

Shannon Collis is currently an Associate Professor at the University of Maryland, where she teaches digital media and sound. Liz Donadio is an Associate Professor of Photography + Media at Northern Virginia Community College, Woodbridge.

Their collaborative works have been exhibited and screened nationally at venues including the Walters Art Museum in Baltimore, the Academy Art Museum in Easton, MD, InLight Richmond Festival, the Museum of Contemporary Art Arlington, VA, and the ICA Baltimore. Most recently they completed an artist residency at The Voxel, a black box theater in Baltimore which culminated in an immersive installation.

Collis and Donadio have received numerous individual and project grants from the Maryland State Arts Council, including a 2023 New Artworks Project Planning Grant and an Independent Artist Award in 2021. Their work is included in several collections, such as the Albin O. Kuhn Library at UMBC and the Maryland Center for History and Culture.
